ABOUT NGO:

Tribhuvandas Foundation is a pioneering NGO in Anand, Gujarat, supported by NDDB and AMUL. It works towards strengthening rural health infrastructure with a focus on maternal and child healthcare. Operating across 627 villages in 5 blocks, it runs a Rural Health Programme (RHP) that serves over 20 lakh people. Services include antenatal and postnatal care, immunization, malnutrition prevention, and community-based health education. Their field staff, called 'Sakhis', are trained female health workers who monitor and support rural women and children through regular home visits and health camps. The Foundation uses a well-established data monitoring system to track health indicators and deliver quality services. It is a model of public-private partnership in the healthcare sector.
